Should I conduct a conflict sensitivity assessment?

Is armed violence taking place in the area or in neighbouring areas to where the project is due to take place or has it done within the last 5 years?

- No
- Yes

Is there competition over scarce resources such as land or water or do different groups lay claim to the same resources?

- No
- Yes

Are there disagreements over how the benefits of natural resources such as minerals, oil and gas or timber have been shared between groups?

- No
- Yes

Is there a sense that one group has been ‘wronged’ or ‘exploited’ by another?

- No
- Yes

Are there competing ideologies or faiths that are exclusive in outlook and which tend to characterise the ‘other’ as a threat?

- No
- Yes

There is no need to do a conflict sensitivity assessment

You should do a conflict sensitivity assessment

Are there effective conflict management and resolution mechanisms that are appropriate for the issue and are they being used?

- No
- Yes

Although the risk of violent conflict is less, your project can still aggravate conflict dynamics and so a conflict sensitivity assessment should still be completed